

The background is a composite image with a light blue tint. The top half features medical equipment: a glass bottle of 'Nasalex' (Nasal Spray) with a black cap, a stethoscope, a syringe, and a small vial. The bottom half shows a laboratory setting with a person in a white lab coat and blue gloves using a pipette to transfer liquid into a small vial. In the foreground, there are several pieces of laboratory glassware, including a large Erlenmeyer flask containing blue liquid, a smaller flask with yellow liquid, and a multi-well plate. The overall aesthetic is clean and professional, representing clinical and research environments.

Journal of Clinical Endocrinology Research