Accepted on January 30, 2020

Dear Readers,

The Journal of clinical psychiatry and cognitive psychology has made another developmental transition, a very healthy step forward. All manuscript management services will be web-based. This allows authors to submit and track the progress of their work as it goes through the review, decision making, and production processing. Reviewers will be helped by the remote access capabilities of this system as well as the ongoing tracking of the course of work that they have reviewed. This web-based system allows all of us on the editorial team to handle our part of the process expeditiously, efficiently and with even better oversight. And it allows our managing editor to keep a close watchover all of the work and all of us doing it.

The objective of the AACPCP is to publish high-quality original research papers, survey reports, case studies, narratives, review article, short communication, clinical data, epidemiologic studies, thesis and relevant and insightful reviews. Every year we have published different volumes and different issues. The journal covers all areas of Mental Disorders, Neurocognitive Disorders, Dementia, Stress & Affective Disorders etc., with special focus on research pertaining to Neuroimaging, Psychotherapy, Cognitive Therapy, Behavior Therapy, and Psychopharmacology. All published papers are subject to the journal's double-blind review process. The topics for the 2019 year were varied and exciting. The current volume of the journal is 4 with issue 1.

The Timeline of processing from Submission to Publication is 45 days. Manuscripts will be published within 7 days of their acceptance.

The social media can play a key role in spreading the research work increased visibility, citation and ultimately the impact of published works. We promote published articles to the social media. This will benefit the researcher by helping to increase his reputation and attendant career progression. We are present on Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and Instagram.

According to the Google Analytics, more than 261,117 readers are visiting to our journal websites to submit manuscripts, to browse the latest research published on public health and health issues and to refer to the published content to conceptualize their research study, derive research hypotheses, compile case reports and validate their contributions. Readers from many countries including United States, Japan, United Kingdom, India, Egypt and Nigeria visit our journal domain to learn about the ongoing research activities in this field.

On behalf of the Allied Academies Publishing AACPCP Editorial Board and the whole Editorial Office, I would like to express our gratitude to the authors of the articles published during the past years, and to acknowledge the generous help which both the authors and editors obtained from the peer-reviewers.

Our aspiration is to facilitate scientific discovery in new ways by exploring new technologies in the field of Clinical psychiatry and Cognitive Psychology.

Regards, Editorial team
