

Malnutrition in Disabled Children

Ibrahim Abdullah Mohammed Refaei
Sultan Bin Abdulaziz Humanitarian City, KSA

Statement of the Problem: Children with special needs suffer from malnutrition due to lack of nutrients necessary for child development and physical and cognitive development.

It is therefore necessary to intervene in order to overcome the problems that malnutrition may cause to address the problems related to malnutrition early, which contributes to improving the quality of life and preserving the remaining physical and mental potential and try to develop them to be healthier in the future.
